

ARRANGING PLANS TO WELCOME SCOUTS TO THE COUNTY SEAT

"The Keys of Doylestown"
To Be Extended To The Visitors

NAME THE COMMITTEES

Expect Parade to Consist of Seven Separate Divisions

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 29.—"The Keys of Doylestown" are going to be extended to the membership of the Bucks County Scouting Council on Saturday, April 10th. The 1213 Cubs, Scouts, Sea Scouts, and Rovers are looking forward to coming to the county seat. They will be accompanied by their 297 Leaders and Committeemen, and many friends and relatives. It is going to be the closing mass activity commemorating the Tenth Anniversary of the Council. Scouting Sunday, April 11th, the date ten years ago when the Council was founded will be celebrated in all churches. For ten years, the local council has served boy and man of our area with a fine record of accomplishment.

The Doylestown Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs have combined their efforts to form a reception committee. The men of the committee met in the offices of Arthur M. Eastburn with Scout Executive William F. Livermore to arrange the details. Arthur M. Eastburn is the General Chairman with J. Purdy Weiss as Vice-Chairman.

Sub-committees were appointed to include men who are known to accomplish results. With a full committee meeting, this week, everyone accepted his responsibility, and it indicates plans for the 10th will be as delightful as was the reception at Bristol in 1926 sponsored by their Rotary and Exchange Clubs.

George S. Hotchkiss was selected as building chairman with the need of securing the Court House, National Guard Armory, and the High School to house the events for the activities. J. Purdy Weiss will arrange with the service clubs for the financing of the entertainment expenses. A souvenir program is planned, and Clifford Beck is directing the printing of it.

Part of the entertainment will include moving pictures. Chairman for making arrangements will be Charles Rowe with a committee comprising Charles Maumonis, and George Willard. The committee hopes the Strand Theatre management will repeat the generous one-hour show they have provided on previous Scouting Days. The show will probably follow the afternoon matinee.

There will be seven divisions in the parade. One official division, and a division for each of the six districts. Floats will be an added attraction. Edward Biester was appointed as chairman to secure ten bands. Each year, local musical organizations offer their assistance in making the Scouting Day parade a joyful occasion with stirring music.

Doylestown Borough Council is being asked to approve the parade route, and to eliminate parking on Main street between 5 p. m. and 8 p. m. The parade route will be announced at a later date following a conference of the President of the Scouting Council Dr. A. J. Strathie, Newtown; Doylestown Burgess, George S. Hotchkiss; Reception Committee Chairman Arthur M. Eastburn; Chairman of Council Arrangements Thawley Hayman; and Scout Executive William F. Livermore. The co-operation of the State Highway Patrol, Doylestown Police, and the Keystone and AAA Motor Clubs is going to be requested.

It is planned to have 800 portions of refreshments secured through the assistance of national food supply houses. The securing of the food, preparing it, and serving will be a considerable responsibility. One of the strongest committees was selected to include Chairman Jack Rosenberger, and Vice-Chairman Francis Ellsworth.

Window cards, a mileage banner, percentage co-operative banners, and other items essential to mobilizing a large organization for a central gathering are being developed. The complete program for the day will be announced at a later date by the committees have completed their work.

Joseph M. Wollard Dies At Buckley St. Residence

Joseph M. Wollard, husband of Grace Harkins Wollard, died at his home, 153 Buckley street, yesterday after being confined to his bed for the past three months with a heart ailment.

The late resident of Buckley street leaves his wife, and one son, James Wollard; two sisters and a brother: Mrs. Harry Carter, Bristol; Mrs. Rita Mayberry, and George Wollard, Philadelphia.

Mr. Wollard, who was born here, was a member of Bristol Council, Knights of Columbus.

Relatives and friends, also members of the K. of C., have been invited to the funeral from his late residence, Wednesday, at 8.30 a. m. High Requiem Mass will be said in St. Mark's Church at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Mark's Cemetery, with the W. L. Murphy Estate in charge.

Lantell Funeral Will Be Conducted Tomorrow

Funeral service for Miss Wilhelmina M. Lantell, who died at the home of her nephew, William DeVoe, Madison street, Saturday, will be conducted tomorrow from the funeral home of the H. S. Rue Estate, 314 Cedar street, at two p. m., with the Rev. Howard L. Zepp, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be made in Bristol Cemetery, and friends may call this evening between the hours of seven and nine o'clock.

Miss Lantell is survived by two sisters and one brother: Mrs. Horace White and Mrs. Walter Hall, Philadelphia; and William Albert Lantell, Morrisville.

BENSALEM FACULTY TO PRESENT 3-ACT COMEDY

"Anybody's Game" is Title of Play To Be Given at Cornwells Heights, Mar. 31

THOSE IN THE CAST

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Mar. 29.—The faculty play, "Anybody's Game," which will be given by teachers of the Bensalem Township schools, has been announced for presentation in the high school auditorium here the evening of March 31, according to S. K. Faust, superintendent of the Bensalem schools, who is acting as director for the production. Proceeds from the play will be applied to the school fund.

Rehearsals have been held regularly for more than a month and it is expected that the production will be well received. Teachers having parts in the play include: Lynn Taylor, E. May Early, Axel Kleinsorg, Helen Miller, Catherine Fitzgerald, M. Gemmer, Helen Smith, Clara Withers, Walter B. Fields, Howard Hilgendorf, Daniel Charles, John Bixler, George Reimer and Lloyd Siegrist.

The three-act comedy, which was written by Elizabeth Miele, shows Jimmy Craig, unemployed salesman, trying to sell stockings by going from door to door. He drifts into the Delaney Advertising Agency at a time when a new space buyer is expected. There behind the switchboard is Peggy Blake, a childhood sweetheart, who coaches him so that he can get Mr. Delaney to mistake him for the expert. Every time he opens his mouth, instead of "putting his foot into it" as is usually the case, he dumbly blunders into a succession of triumphs in copy-righting, slogan-coinage, and popular appeal.

The part of Jimmy Craig will be played by Axel Kleinsorg. E. May Early will have the part of Peggy Blake, while Lynn Taylor will act the part of Mr. Delaney.

Deanna Durbin, 13, Has A Mature Singing Voice

Although Deanna Durbin is only 13 she has the singing voice of a mature person, according to Andres de Segura, noted opera singer. Deanna, whose marvelous soprano has been heard by millions on Eddie Cantor's weekly national radio program, has achieved recognition in both radio and the movies during the past year. She makes her screen debut in Universal's "Three Smart Girls," which will open at the Grand Theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

While working before the cameras, she was notified that she had an excellent opportunity to become an opera star. The notification came from Segura himself, who had been commissioned by officials of the Metropolitan Opera to watch Deanna's progress carefully and keep them advised. Segura was for 12 years a leading baritone at the New York "Met."

Segura declares that while it is far from common for a grand opera company to be seriously interested in such a youthful singer, it is not without precedent. Lucrezia Bori made her Metropolitan debut at the age of 14 and Adelina Patti first sang in Spanish opera when she was 11.

According to the famed baritone, Deanna already is the possessor of a fully developed set of vocal organs, and her voice will change only in volume as she grows older. This mature quality is noticeable in all Deanna's broadcasts. Segura recommends a delay of three years in her operatic debut, for the reason that "more preparation will enlarge and enrich an already mature soprano voice."

Seeks Father of Dead Family

Aurora, Ill., Mar. 29.—A father who forgot to send his children an Easter greeting today was sought by police bearing a tragic message.

A note reading, "It's pretty good! Johnny has kids and can't even send them a card at Easter," was the only clue police had to the motive of Mrs. Jeanette Martin, 25, in strangling to death her three baby girls and taking her life.

The children were Betty Jean, 3; Olga Jeanette, 2; and Joan, three months.

COURIER OFFERS EXTRA CASH PRIZE OF $25 TO BABY OBTAINING MOST VOTES IN BIG ELECTION THIS WEEK

HAS MANY BACKERS

JOAN M. VANZANT
Bristol

A manner bright with interest and interrogation is Joan, the pretty little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Vanzant, of 557 Swain street, Bristol. She has every reason to be hopeful of success and have her name engraved high upon the scroll of honor. Joan, with her brown eyes and blonde wavy hair, is certain to gain and hold a prominent position throughout the election. In her camp are able, as well as ample supporters, devoted to her cause and unwavering in their allegiance. One of Joan's most active supporters is Master Jack Sirott, who is ten years old and lives at 114 Pond street, Bristol. Mrs. Margaret Vanzant, of Bristol, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilkinson, of West Bristol, the grandparents of this interesting little candidate, are anxiously awaiting "Election Day" in the hope that Joan will be one of the "top" winners.

The time set for the first cut in vote values is Saturday night, April 10th, and until that time each merchant coupon counts FOUR times its face value, or FOUR hundred votes. Subscriptions, too, whether new, old or arrears, count FOUR times the figures printed in the back of the receipt books. Feverish activity is anticipated between now and April 10th.

The "Shower of Cash" that will flood the community through the medium of the baby election has not wanted for interest. In fact as the time draws nearer for the conferring of honors, there is a keener activity on the part of everyone, and speculation is rife as to the identity of the prospective winners.

But there is much work to be done between now and April 24th. The last few weeks of the election are weeks in which the race may be definitely won or lost. Nearly a hundred babies are very much in the running. Positions are changing every 24 hours and no one can tell even what the results will be when the last list is published, tomorrow.

Pictures still appearing in The Courier are getting a response that is gratifying to those who are working for the individual success of the little campaigners. From that source has come many hundreds of votes. Other pictures will appear from time to time, but it will be difficult, if not impossible, to keep them all.

THREE MEN INJURED IN TWO WEEK-END CRASHES

Thomas Bowers, South Langhorne, Has Fracture of Skull and Wrist

TWO LOCALITES HURT

Three men were treated at Harriman Hospital, Saturday evening, for injuries sustained in two separate accidents.

Those treated: Frank Churchray, 267 Roosevelt street, sprain of the left wrist, possible fracture of the ribs.

Thomas Bowers, Woodland avenue, South Langhorne, fracture of the left wrist, fracture of the skull, lacerations of chin, ear and back of head.

Bowers, whom it is stated struck the rear of a parked truck as he drove his automobile on the Lincoln Highway, one mile west of Oxford Valley, was in an unconscious condition when admitted to the institution. He only regained consciousness for a few minutes at a time, state hospital authorities. Two stitches were required to close the wound on the side of the chin, and two stitches were taken in the laceration at the back of his head.

Hutchinson, it is reported, was driving a machine, in which Churchray was a passenger, when it is claimed he was forced off a highway just outside Bristol by a car travelling in the opposite direction. It is reported that one of the rear wheels came off the car, and the two were badly shaken up.

Spanish Naval Battle in French Waters

Bayonne, France, Mar. 29.—A Spanish naval battle within French territorial waters, today sent the Loyalist collier Marcaccio—a member of the same fleet as the famed Mar Cantabrico—aground off Bayonne.

Providing residents of the southwest coast with a close view, the battle was waged off Cape Breton, while two rebel armed vessels set upon the Marcaccio.

Cotinue Court Battle

Washington, Mar. 29.—An all-Summer battle over President Roosevelt's Supreme Court plan was in prospect today. The Congressional contest has entered its eighth week and administration leaders opposed all talk of compromises.

Foes of the plan were looking forward to a national radio attack on the plan tonight by Senator Carter Glass, Democrat of Virginia, staunch administration leader. Glass, in announcing his opposition some time ago declared the country needed "a new Attorney General instead of a larger Supreme Court."

Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic leader of the Senate, will reply to Glass in a radio talk tomorrow night.

Resume Fighting

Madrid, Mar. 29.—Thundering a warning of a new offensive, rebel artillery today resumed heavy bombardment of Madrid, while troops were massed north and south of the capital for the fifth attempt to capture the city.

One shell screamed into the heart of the city, killing a man and bursting a gas main. Jets of flames leaped high from the streets, taxing a large number of firemen.

Loyalists sought to stave off an anticipated offensive with relentless air raids on insurgent points, northeast of Guadalajara and on the Jarama front just southeast of Madrid.

Charges Negligence

Dubois, Mar. 29.—A charge of "gross negligence" was made by Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti today, as rescuers brought out the last of the bodies of nine men trapped by explosion in the Kramer Pennsylvania mine of the Northwestern Mining and Exchange Company, near here.

Margiotti charged the men died because they were permitted to enter the mine 20 minutes after the fans had been started, instead of waiting two hours as required by Pennsylvania law.

He asserted the two-hour precaution was an "absolute necessity" in the Kramer mine because it was known to be "gaseous."

Margiotti's charges were partly confirmed by District Mine Inspector Tom Lewis. As many as 500 or even 600 workers might have been killed if the full shift had been on.

SCHOOL TEACHER ENDS LIFE WHILE DESPONDENT

Mrs. Anna L. Steeley, Ottsville, Found Hanging in Attic by Husband

BROODED OVER HER JOB

OTTSVILLE, Mar. 29.—Despondent over her failure to continue to teach school until she had reached the retirement age, Mrs. Anna L. Steeley is reported to have committed suicide at her home late Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Steeley, according to her husband, had spent most of her life teaching school. Employed by the Tinticum Township School Board, she is said to have looked forward for years to becoming eligible for a pension at the retirement age of 60.

Late Friday afternoon during the absence of her husband from the farm she went to the attic of her home, fastened a rope around her neck, adjusted a noose and kicked a chair away from beneath her, according to police reports.

At six o'clock that evening, Mr. Steeley arrived home, and not receiving any response to his calls, went into the attic and there discovered the tragedy.

Dr. H. Clayton Moyer, coroner of Bucks county, gave the cause of death as suicide.

MANY BAPTISED, JOIN CHURCHES ON EASTER

Group of Nine Receive The Rite at First Baptist Church, Here

EDIFICES DECORATED

Easter Sunday church services in Bristol were largely attended, and at many of the edifices of worship rites of baptism were observed, and numerous individuals were received into church membership.

The churches were attractively decorated with lilies, hyacinths, and other Easter flowers, and music and sermons appropriate to the day were in order.

In St. James's Episcopal Church yesterday afternoon three were baptised by the rector, the Rev. George E. Boswell, these including: Jack Allen Fine, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Fine, sponsors Mrs. Mae Groves and Carl Foell; Frank Allen Breece, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Breece, sponsors Mr. and Mrs. Frank Breece; Robert Lammont White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lammont White, sponsors Miss Ruth Rothberger and Clarence Garretson.

Nine baptisms occurred in the First Baptist Church, last evening, with the pastor, the Rev. Howard L. Zepp officiating: Mrs. Charles Hellyer, June Hems, Mary Watson, Edward Martin, Elwyn Gould, Fred Stewart, Jr., William Wallace, Ervin Selfert, Jack Randall.

Baptism and reception of members were in order in Bristol Methodist Episcopal Church, at the Easter morning service. Those baptised: Janice Marie Costello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Costello; Phoebe May Scheffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Scheffey; Richard Thomas Crosby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crosby; and the following adults: Miss Alice Smith, Miss Eleanor Hazel Blackburn, Mrs. Lydia Russo. Received into membership of this church by the pastor, the Rev. Norman L. Davidson, were: The Misses Sarah Craig, Vivian Werner, Elizabeth Fascett, E. Hazel Blackburn, Alice Smith; Mrs. Ella Craig, Mrs. Lydia Russo.

The following were received into membership of the Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour, at the morning service yesterday: Mrs. Rose Carmosino, Mrs. Assunta Cordisco, Isabelle Zanni, Alice Felicione, Ralph Rodino, Alfred Grazi.

Given Ten-Day Sentence In the Bucks County Jail

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 29.—Persistence in his efforts to use a telephone resulted in James Williams, 40, colored, being given a 10-day sentence in the Bucks County Jail by Justice of Peace Neal Nolan.

On Friday night Williams went to the home of Constable Andrew Thompson, Washington street, knocked on the front door and when Mrs. Thompson appeared, said he wanted to use the telephone. Mrs. Thompson slammed the door.

Not at all discouraged, Williams walked across the street and entered the home of Walter Barber. Surprised members of the family hastily ejected him, his plea about the use of a phone notwithstanding.

Then he wandered into the Holy Trinity Catholic Church where Good Friday services were being held, took a seat in the first row, and joined in the singing. After the congregation had stopped, Williams kept right on singing. He was warned to remain quiet but kept right on. However, he quieted down and was not molested. After the services he went to the home of Dr. Theodore Cohen, Washington street, and demanded the use of the physician's phone.

It was at this time that the law caught up with him and he was taken into custody by Officer Lebegern.

His reception at the Bucks County Jail was filled with warmth. "Are you back again?" the warden asked.

He had been released from the institution a week ago on a similar charge.

$100,000 Blaze

Franklin, Mar. 29.—Flames swept the J. C. Penney Company store on Liberty street in the heart of Franklin's business section early today and in two hours caused a loss estimated at $100,000 to the store and nearby buildings.

FIND BODY OF MAN IN RIVER; DROWNED IN FALL FROM TUG

Robert McElven, 35, Reported
Having Fallen Off Tug
On January 11th

HAD BEEN REPORTED ILL

Search for Body Was Made at Time of Accident But Without Result

Two boys just rambling along the shore of the Delaware river at Harriman Beach yesterday afternoon saw a man's body floating in the water about two feet from the shore line. The youths, Thomas Laskowski, 16, 278 Hayes street, and Andrew Kondrya, 17, 254 Hayes street, ran to a nearby house and summoned the police. The body was pulled ashore and later identified as that of Robert McElven, 35, Pemberton, N. J. McElven fell off a tug boat near midnight on January 11th.

The body was viewed by deputy coroner Dr. James Lawley and then removed to the Molden morgue where it was identified by the captain of the tug.

McElven was reported missing to the Bristol police shortly after midnight on January 12th. The police were told that McElven, employed on the tug, New York Marine No. 5, fell off the boat as it was passing Bristol, towing barges up the river. According to the members of the crew McElven had not been feeling well, and other members of the crew and the captain had told him to remain in his bunk.

It is believed that the boatman had started to walk on the deck of the tug, and stricken had fallen overboard. The accident was reported as having occurred above the black buoy near Mulberry street. The tug was stopped and search made and the search for the body continued for several days and nights thereafter.

Scarlet Fever Causes Several Schools To Close

Communities in eastern Montgomery and Bucks counties are battling scarlet fever in one of the most widespread contagious disease epidemics the section has experienced in years.

Hathoro schools were closed on Monday and will not open until next Tuesday. Two cases developed last week in that borough and seven more have been reported in the last few days.

Because 12 of the 600 pupils in the Glenside public school had contracted scarlet fever within the past week, their schoolmates are getting a 14-day instead of a 10-day Easter vacation. Dr. Joseph A. Brooke, Cheltenham township health officer, last Saturday ordered the school closed at once.

The epidemic has had away among the children of Warminster and Southampton townships for a number of weeks, but now seems to be on the wane. There have been 22 quarantines in Warminster since the epidemic first made its appearance. A nurse is at the school every morning and examines the children as they arrive, sending home any with suspicious indications.

Newtown borough has also had a number of cases and the school there is following the same precautions as taken in Warminster.

Among the pupils of the Upper Moreland schools at Willow Grove only three cases are on record at this time. Scattered cases have also been reported in other neighboring districts.

Engagement of Miss Taylor To H. Reichert Announced

Miss Helen M. Taylor, 604 Bath street, entertained a few friends at her home on Friday evening. Supper was served, the table being decorated in pink and silver. Pink carnations formed a border on the table and at each end there were pink candles. Under the silver paper were hidden tiny rolls of parchment tied with pink and silver ribbons which extended to each place at the table. Each guest pulled the ribbon and received the roll of parchment, announcing the engagement of Miss Taylor to Henry Reichert, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reichert, Sr., Holmesburg. Favors were pink and silver baskets.

Guests were the Misses Zula Warrick, Carrie Rapp, Elizabeth Wilkinson, Margaret Smoyer, Beulah Stackhouse, Helen Appleton, Hilda Taylor; Mrs. Jack Lynn, Mrs. Paul Simpson, Mrs. Russell Booz, Mrs. Edgar Odyke, Mrs. George A. Taylor, Bristol; Mrs. Edward Terry, Mrs. William Reichert, Jr., Mrs. William Reichert, Sr., Mrs. Allen Birkhead, Holmesburg; Mrs. Charles A. Zimmer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Held in Murder Case

Philadelphia, Mar. 29.—Arrested when he drove up to his home in a truck, Fred Turse, 27, of Camden, N. J., today was being held by Philadelphia police for questioning in connection with the slaying of Lewis Kable, 50, manager of a produce market here.

Kable was found beaten to death and robbed of $75 in the basement of his store last Saturday. Detectives said Turse was acquainted with the dead man.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES

Since early times men have tried to leave memorials of their thoughts, words and deeds. Otherwise we would know nearly nothing of ancient civilizations, though they were once alive and interesting as our own. But their records are pitifully inadequate. To read them needs patience, skill and much imagination. A few words of a forgotten tongue, carved in crumbling stone, must unlock the secrets of a century. A single monument may be all that is left of a city's story.

Many inventions make it possible for the present to tell the future all it may wish to know about us, and probably more. Nearing completion in Washington is the National Archive Building. Within it will be stored a great national collection of motion pictures and sound recordings, the materials from which future historians may reconstruct at will our life and times. They will be kept in fire-proof vaults, under governmental care.

From the little we know of nations and civilizations dead and gone we wonder at the strangeness of their ways and customs. But from the actual words of many witnesses, the living likenesses of man today, tomorrow may derive as curious a tale. We are queer folk, no doubt, with many stupidities and weaknesses, and these we take pains to put on record so that the future may marvel at them.

PURCHASING AGENT

Who does the buying for the Great American Home? Twenty-nine million housewives do 85 per cent of it.

This raises the question whether the household budget is better directed now than in the old days when wives and mothers were protected from the snares and pitfalls of commerce. And who is better prepared to answer it than the corporations which lend money to balance the family budget?

One such corporation doing business in many communities finds that the husband who turns over his pay check and leaves buying and paying of bills to his wife is freer from debt worries, gets into fewer financial jams and is more prosperous than other men.

How are these conclusions to be reconciled with woman's traditional reputation of extravagance? This the finance company also answers. The wife who is kept in ignorance of the family's financial condition has brought this calamity upon her sex through no fault of her own. To spend and spend and spend is human.

Household management is too big a job for the man who is away all day to perform efficiently in his leisure hours. The average housewife enters into more financial transactions in a day than her grandfather did in his small business.

Nothing puzzles a bald-headed man more than how fast his whiskers can grow.

So live that you can go to the door without wondering if it is a bill collector.

Every man thinks he can cure a cold or raise a family until he gets one of his own.

Everything seems to be settled, except whether La Guardia's Poey is bigger than Hitler's Pfu.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol, Sept. 23, 1875. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The $12,000 bridge between Newportville and Bristol is being repaired.

William Doran had the ends of two of his fingers clipped Tuesday morning while experimenting with a new moulding machine in the plant mill.

James R. Bollen, Esq., a respected citizen of Bucks County, died Sunday night at Bridgeton. Mr. Bollen some years ago was one of the most prominent men of his section of the county, being a member of the Lower House of the State Legislature during the years 1862, '63, '64.

The Rev. Dr. Patton, of New Haven, Conn., will preach in the Presbyterian Church on next Sunday morning. Dr. Patton has very recently returned from England. While there he was in frequent attendance upon the meetings of Messrs. Moody and Sankey, and took part in them. He will give some account of these meetings in the service on Sunday morning.

W. W. Rose's great sale of wagons came off yesterday at Newportville, and was very satisfactory. Thirty-eight were offered, and 27 sold. The show wagon was sold for $322.50 to a Mr. Shaffer, of Montgomery county; next highest to Dr. Dingee, for $199. Two horses were offered and knocked down—one black pacing mare at $380, and bay mare at $115. The whole amount of sales was $3,160.

HULMEVILLE—The work on the dam is now completed, and it is a strong and substantial structure, seven months of constant work was required for its completion; the entire cost is $5,000.

E. G. Harrison, real estate agent, has sold the farm of Phoebe Wright in Middletown township, containing 36 acres, to Anthony Swain of Bristol, for $5,200.

Mr. Catlow's new carpet factory is under roof.

THE FIREMEN'S PARADE—The event which for several weeks has occupied the attention, not only of the persons immediately concerned, but of the whole community, and judging from the crowds who thronged our streets on Saturday, the adjacent country also, passed off according to announcement to the satisfaction of everybody who had the pleasure of participating, either as looker-on or as one of the boys. For three days preceding the parade, we had rains or cloudy weather, and many an anxious glance was cast at the sky by the firemen on retiring to troubled dreams on Friday night. It was therefore with happy hearts that they awoke on the auspicious morn, and found the weather clear as a bell.

At about half-past two o'clock the line was formed and the procession started, headed by chief marshal Halzel, and his aids, William Smith, William S. Daniels, J. M. Callahan, and T. P. Whitmore, gallantly riding on noble steeds.

Immediately following was McClurg's Liberty Cornet Band, and the national colors, borne by eight or ten boys, after whom Bristol Fire Company, No. 1, came marching along in strong, drawing their hose carriage, handsomely decked with flags and flowers. Their steamer, flashing and glittering in the sunshine, was drawn by a powerful four-horse team, driven by I. C. Fetter, and the hand engine, which has done yeoman service in its time, was not left out, but occupied a conspicuous position, having a pair of fine horses to keep it from lagging in the race. The men wore their usual uniform, red hats and shirts, red belts, white scarfs and gloves, and black pants.

Next came the America Hose, Hook and Ladder Company—they mustered 62 men. The visitors came next. The ceremony of housing the engine was rather unceremonious. No. 1 took the ropes and placed the truck and hose carriage in the building, giving three cheers with a will for No. 2, and No. 2 giving three as hearty cheers for No. 1.

The band played, and they marched, marched, marched for their supper.

As we believe that women should have their rights, we must not forget to give honor to the chief marshal of the commissary department, Mrs. Garwood, and her assistants, who labored so assiduously to provide for the entertainment of their guests.

Last Tuesday evening the fire companies sold the butter, cheese, etc., remaining over after the parade.

HULMEVILLE

A short Easter program was presented by the scholars of the primary department in the Sunday School session at the Methodist Church yesterday morning. The numbers included: Recitation, Elwyn Hill; song, primary department; recitation, "Bobby" Sands; song, school; recitation, Robert Brown; pantomime and drill, "Easter Flowers"; gifts of intermediate department. Gifts of potted plants were distributed to each scholar at the close of the service.

On Easter Morn and Mrs. C. Wesley Haefner and son Donald, Mr. and Mrs. John Corrigan and son Robert, Miss Elma E. Haefner, and Messrs. Charles and Harold H. Haefner were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. William Stumm, Merchantville, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Phipps and daughter Jean, Hulmeville; Mr. and Mrs. William Brady, Bristol, motored to Atlantic City, N. J. yesterday.

NEWPORTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson and the Misses Marie and Katherine Wilson, spent Easter Day in Philadelphia as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Knod.

Miss Lavina Prentice, accompanied by Miss Margaret Kinard, left Friday for a four-day trip to the Poconos.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clifton are driving a new Plymouth car.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Middleton have recently purchased a new Chevrolet.

Mrs. Annie Rose motored to Mt. Holly, N. J., Friday, where she spent the day with friends.

On Saturday evening a meat-loaf supper will be served in the Newportville Church basement from 5.30 to 8 o'clock. The menu consists of: meat-loaf, mashed potatoes, peas, rolls, coffee, tea and cake. Tickets may be purchased from any Scout or member of the Ladies Auxiliary. Committee in charge consists of Mrs. Julius Gehrmann, Mrs. Herman Becker and members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

HARVEST OF HINTS

Salad oil is useful to grease molds for gelatine salads and desserts, as well as muffin rings and baking sheets.

Beware of overcooking spinach. The color will remain bright green if it is not cooked too long. If the spinach is washed thoroughly, enough water will cling to the leaves so that none need be added.

Even tea-wagons are going streamlined. A new tea-wagon is built on such trim modern lines that you can't tell it from an end-table. It is made of walnut, with a black glass top, box sides and a large open shelf to hold extra rattans, or plates. It rolls smoothly along on invisible and noiseless casters.

When the whipping cream gets obstinate, try placing the bowl containing the cream inside a larger bowl partially filled with crushed ice. Then whip steadily.

Here is an idea to impart that onion flavor delicately: Buy an aluminum tea-bowl (ten cents) and fill it with chopped onion. Drop the onion-filled tea-bowl into the soup or broth while it is simmering.

Small muffin tins are a time-saver when making hurry-up biscuits. Simply drop the dough into the greased pans and bake as biscuits. Butter the fingers and shape clover rolls quickly, baking them in the muffin pans.

Crisp watercress and slivers of scraped and chilled carrot are new.

CHAPTER XXIX

Gilbert spoke to Felicia.
"That telephone call was about Eustace," he stopped.

She moved one of her long hands slightly, forward and back, along the chair arm. The fingers of that hand tightened, loosened again. She said, in a shadow of her vivid voice: "You want to tell me that Eustace is dead."

Denise said, "No, no, no!" and was silent, watching Gilbert's lips start to frame words.

"Yes, Felicia."

"He killed himself!" Felicia's voice was shaking then.

"It is not at all certain. It is possible. He and his horse plunged into a cañon from a high path on the edge." He paused again.

But Felicia told him: "Go on. Tell me all the rest."

Denise made some small sound of protest, leaned toward her sister, who said, "Quite all right, thank you, Denise," in a tone that stopped any gesture of sympathy she might have made. She said again but louder: "Tell me the rest."

He told her, "The job he'd found was about finished. His people never communicated with him as far as any one knows. The letter wrote him arrived—afterward. He had taken that path very often, and was familiar with it. On the other hand, there had been a storm, and the path was softer and more slippery than usual." His tone changed suddenly. "Denise, pour Felicia some black coffee, and brandy, if there is any on the tray."

Like an automaton, Denise poured coffee, poured a liqueur glass of cognac.

Keith moved quickly, took the glass and cup from her, brought them to Felicia. Felicia drank the coffee, set the cup down, drank the brandy, set the glass down, folded her hands and looked at Keith.

"It leaves me rather on your hands, doesn't it?"

His voice matched hers in matter-of-factness. "I don't object."

Denise spoke furiously, as Gilbert had never heard her speak, except on that near months past, when he had prevented her sailing to those two.

"Stop it, Felicia. You too, Keith! Stop pretending."

They looked at her then, and so did her husband.

"Stop pretending that you are so modern you must be flippant even about death. Have the grace of tears, at least, though they're pretended too. I have loved you both. I have loved you, Keith, so much that remembrance of laughter between us, and dance music we shared and the feeling of your arm about my waist, has seemed more to be cherished than my husband, who's worth ten of you. I've loved you, Felicia, enough to believe that you were sure where I was uncertain. Where I was a coward. Not any more."

Felicia said evenly: "You are being a little hysterical. Afterward you'll feel rather silly. Don't you think that you'd better go to your room, or out into the fresh air?"

But Denise rushed on as if she had not heard her:

"A man who was named Eustace Gardner Dayne is dead. Eustace! I was maid of honor at your wedding to him, though you thought I was too young. Eustace said: 'Let the child dress up, and march up the aisle and stand in the receiving line. She'll enjoy it so.'"

"He was my brother-in-law, of whom I was fond. Absurd, vague word, fond. He was not specially clever or witty; he was just old-fashioned and simple and honorable. Now he's dead."

"I can't stand this," Felicia said. She rose, and caught Keith's arm. "Run away from it, then, both of you, as you've been running away from everything all our lives! If you stay in this room, you'll have to listen."

They stood immobile then; and Gilbert, for an instant, thought of interrupting. Then he did not. This way or another, Denise had to stumble into reality at last. If she spoke her thoughts, to her and to him who had been so dreadfully important to her, she would know her thoughts afterward.

He had been furious with her that day, had considered that scene in the garden—trivial it seemed now—outrageous in its implications. Ever since, until the telephone rang, he had said to himself furiously: "She might have the taste to remain loyal to me in my own establishment, in sight of my own servants, at least." But all that suddenly did not matter.

Nor did he care about the effects of her words on her sister and Keith Sheldie. He suddenly judged them himself. One way or another, he had killed a decent man between them. And he knew they would survive even that, would buttress themselves with light words, with pretense that nothing had happened, until they could almost disbelieve that this hour had been. So they could survive anything his young wife, on her desperate way to learning her own soul, would say to them.

She was saying now: "Eustace dead—nothing either of you two do will hurt any more. He's free and I expect he's glad. I expect it was the only thing you left him to be glad about."

Keith said: "Will you stop, Denise! It doesn't matter what you say to me, but for Felicia's sake." She answered that steadily: "It doesn't matter what I say to either of you ever again. You say 'for Felicia's sake' now. You would not have thought of Felicia five minutes, any time these last weeks that I chose to show you you could have me, whom you wanted first. I came near showing you, because my old love for you made me blind—blind to the important things, that you are nothing, and have nothing for me, but my own old stupid belief in you."

Felicia said to Keith softly: "Shall we go now, my dear?" "No; let her finish."

"For that matter," Denise said, "Felicia wouldn't have thought of you five minutes either, if any specially attractive young Britisher had turned up, who didn't happen to know about the scandal in which she was involved. . . . You will suit each other very well, Keith and Felicia, better than any two people I know."

"Nice of you, my dear," her sister said.

Denise's words began to stumble a little. "Maybe you were not always as you are now, either of you. Maybe years of thinking first what you would get out of anything you did, and behaving as if life were just a candy-box, and you were children choosing the best pieces greedily—made you as you are. You always did just what you wanted."

"Put that on our epitaphs then, and excuse us now, Denise. —Will you excuse us too, Gilbert? Must say, you don't have much control of your wife."

Gilbert did not answer that, because he saw that tears were streaming down Denise's pretty cheeks. And he saw her sister, seeing those tears, stop on her way out of the room beside Keith.

Felicia said: "Now I'm curious enough to stay. Why are you weeping, Denise? If I don't, I shall always wonder."

"I'm weeping because I used to love you both, and never shall any more."

Gilbert saw something move in Keith's face, at those quiet words. But Felicia, still mocking, said: "I hope the consciousness of virtue will suffice you, my dear. You'll have missed a lot, never doing what you wanted. Are you sure the reason, these last weeks, was not just that you did not dare?"

All the anger was gone from Denise now. She answered, patiently, as if she were speaking to a child who asked unimportant questions: "You both made me sufficiently like

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—It's time to take care of the mail bag again, so we'll begin by answering the questions asked most frequently.

About belts. The narrow self-material belts that once characterized so many frocks are definitely out for evening and not too modish for day-time wear. At least half the spring models are beltless. This includes most princess dresses, practically all suits and a lot of peasant numbers which make up for the lack by shirring where the skirt and waist are joined.

We are using some belts but they are mostly contrasting ones. In "Singing Marine" Doris Weston wears several wide belts with her evening dresses. However in every case they are embroidered with beads or jewels, to contrast with a simple dress. For daytime wear there is a return to wide patent leather belts and novelty types. A yellow crepe afternoon dress Ann Nagel wears in "The Madcap Heiress" has a brown suede belt which buckles in back and is embroidered in front with brightly colored wool yarn.

About sports costumes. It's ladies' choice between slacks, culottes, plus fours and the new "above-the-knee" pleated skirts. One is as good as another as far as fashion goes, but a slacks suit is probably the most practical. Bette Davis has such a suit which is very smart. The slacks are Kelly green fine-ribbed corduroy, the deep skirt is lemon yellow corduroy and her little hat is the same material as the slacks. Women lifted the deep skirt out of the male wardrobe before he had a chance to get used to it, but it does give a slacks suit new life.

About prints. Tiny girls should never wear big floral prints, but they need not hesitate to go in for bright prints with a small design. Tiny Mary Maguire wears an attractive print which has a black background but is gaily sprinkled with little clusters of violets.

A boon to large women is the widely spaced print which is new this year. Her choice should be a dark background with large designs, preferably floral, spaced so far apart that from a casual glance it would seem they were applied.

Do not set a print off with a lingerie touch at the throat. A newer trick is to repeat the flowers in the print with a cluster of artificial or real ones in the same shades at the neckline or the waist.

sible to run the pictures of every baby entered in the election.

Most Active Ones First

But the babies who are being backed and who are still in the running are certain to have their pictures presented to the public. It would be manifestly unfair to use some and not use others, so the campaign editor has fixed a schedule which will guarantee the use of the picture of every active, leading nominee. As many of the others as possible will also be given a place in the paper's columns.

Merchants who want to see a truly representative baby chosen for the matchless honor of winning the election, report that over the week-end business in their stores was booming and an unprecedented number of customers asked for the vote coupons. You must ask for them when you make a purchase, then bring them to The Courier's election office, where they will be credited to the standing of your favorite.

Go out today and see how many votes you can get for the baby you think is really deserving of the crown.

Preaching Mission Is Easter Service Continuation

A preaching mission will be conducted in the Bristol Methodist Episcopal Church this week as a continuation of the Easter services. In addition to the speakers, the music and singing are being especially emphasized.

The program of varied character is as follows: Monday night, organization night with the Rev. William H. Robinson, Eden M. E. Church, Philadelphia, as preacher; Tuesday, Ladies' night, with the Rev. A. L. Copper, Devereaux Memorial M. E. as preacher; Wednesday, Sunday School and family night, with the Rev. G. G. Dilworth, D. D., preaching; Thursday, community night, with the Rev. A. B. Goudie, Bridesburg, as preacher; Friday, young people's night, the speaker will be the Rev. Arthur S. Walls D. D.

Frankford Ave. M. E. Church, delivering the message.

A song service begins each night at 7.45 under direction of Mrs. Ruth Bowman, Reading. This series of meetings will close next Sunday evening with a mass meeting for men, and a men's message by the Rev. Howard E. Hand, D. D., superintendent of the North District, Philadelphia Conference.

Hunt Missing Bridegroom

Chambersburg, Mar. 29.—J. David Smith, 26-year-old prospective bridegroom of Shippensburg, who went down the street shortly before his scheduled wedding to purchase a bridal bouquet and didn't come back, was the object of an extended search today.

Smith mysteriously disappeared last Friday afternoon just about two hours before he was to wed pretty M. Kathleen Bard, of Chambersburg. Authorities today were leaning toward a theory of "foul play" as the close friends and bride-to-be discounted any theory that Smith might have decided not to get married.

15 Killed in Holiday Crashes

Philadelphia, Mar. 29.—Fifteen persons lost their lives in automobile accidents over the Easter holiday weekend in eastern Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey, a check up revealed today.

The latest victim was David Ferris, 14, of Eureka, Montgomery County, in a collision at Washington Lane and Limekiln Pike.

Fire Chief is Burned

Philadelphia, Mar. 29.—Fire Chief Ross B. Davis was burned today while directing firemen in their battle against a blaze in a center city drapery manufacturing plant here.

Davis fell on the second floor of the building and his hand broke through the burning floor. Before he could free himself the flames had burned his hands and arms.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1937,

King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD—Dressed simply and with a little bow of ribbon

in her hair,

Simone Simon

arrived at the press preview of her picture,

"Seventh Heaven".

By her side in the theater sat Anton

Litvak who is

Miriam Hopkins' favorite escort to Hollywood affairs.

Simone waved

to friends as they entered the house and betrayed nervousness by taking off her coat, then putting it back on again.

"I am scared to death," she told me. Which is what she has been saying ever since they gave her the role of Dianne.

Asked her personal opinion of the film, she replied: "I think Director Henry King did a brilliant job."

Most of the Hollywood newspaper people thought the same.

"Seventh Heaven" has a strong sentimental appeal, just as it did when Fox made it in 1927 with

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell playing Dianne and Chico. It is more James Stewart's picture than it is Simone's. His performance was regarded by many as superior even to the memory-hallowed one of Farrell. Janet Gaynor, on the other hand, remains enshrined as

Dianne. Not that Simone is not good, for she is. But the spiritual transformation as portrayed by Miss Gaynor was more luminous.

Or so it appeared to me. Controvery on this picture is inevitable. And that is another reason why "Seventh Heaven" will probably bring a flood of dollars to

Twentieth Century-Fox.

Accustomed as it is to friendly divorces, Hollywood was amused

the other night at the Trocadero to see Ruth and Edgar Selwyn appear together only a few hours after he had been served with his divorce papers. The next night they met again at the same place. This time her escort was Captain Dancy

Rutherford, but Selwyn dropped over to the table for a drink.

Fancy protective device against kidnapers are no novelty in Hollywood. . . . Rooms packed with canned goods (in case of a revolution) are not unknown. . . . But James Dunn is the first film colony resident to consult an architect about building a home that can be hermetically sealed in case of gas attacks. Dunn borrowed the idea from England—has been assured that for a small extra expense he can have three rooms in his new home built so they can be made gas-proof on short notice.

Answering Your Questions! Mabel Craig, San Francisco; Evelyn Brent is still married to Harry Edwards. Incidentally, Betty is doing a part at Paramount in "King of the Gamblers".

A regular magnet for unattached men at the late spots is Lupe Velaz. If they stay in line, she usually lends them off good-naturedly. If they are too persistent, particularly in asking for her telephone number, she pretends to oblige. Only, it is really her agent's number. And the little tamale gets a big haw-haw, thinking of the surprise and disappointment in store for the gay lads.

Day's Gossip. . . . As he was leaving Palm Springs Gene Raymond stopped at a gas station and checked his baggage in the back of the car. To his amazement he discovered case after case of guns. A porter at the hotel had made an error and packed Gene's luggage of a British sportsman on his way to Africa. . . .

Director Charles ("Chuck") Reisner will soon publish two volumes of children's stories called "Inch High People". They have been highly praised for their psychology and will be serialized first. . . . At the Trocadero's Sunday night show a British performer gave the year's outstanding exhibition of gaul when he maneuvered Grace Allen into being stepped to his act. She took it quite fully. . . . You everybody's apt to get a good sportsmanship. . . . Ray Francis and Delmer Daves are going crazy about pinocle. . . .

And Claude Rains just got his recent citizenship papers.

HIGH SCHOOL NINE HOPEFUL OF MAKING GOOD SHOWING ON THE DIAMOND THIS SEASON

By Louis Tomlinson

Quite contrary to his usual outlook for his sport teams, Coach "Gloomy-Bill" Dougherty has drawn an optimistic picture for the 1937 edition of the Cardinal and Gray baseball team, despite the fact that he has to build an entire new infield and one new outfielder, all within a week.

The Cardinals will inaugurate the diamond season with the N. J. S. D. their basketball nemesis, at the local field next Tuesday, April 6. Besides this they will cross bats with eight league opponents and five other teams, two of which are still tentative, but which are expected to be filled in the near future. The season will close with Brown Prep on May 18 at home.

League clashes include tilts with Newtown, Bensalem, Morrisville and Langhorne in home and home games. Newtown, you will recall, upset Bristol for the league title last year in a tie-play-off at the close of the campaign, but Coach Dougherty believes his team this year can come out on top when it's all over in May. Of course this optimistic conclusion is drawn with the view that he receive his share of the all-important "breaks."

Mainstays of last year's team, returning this year are the Sophomore battery of Jesse VanZant behind the plate and Bill Gallagher, southpaw and ace of the mound staff, and center gardener, Harry Bauroth, who is the leading slugger of the team. This group is expected to be the backbone of the squad and much will be counted upon from them if the club is to go anywhere in the league this year.

Others who will be counted upon to help them are Hystie Grimes of the hurling corps. Charles Hughes, only member of last year's inner cordon to return, and Pete DeLuca, who roamed the outfield last year. All of these will no doubt see much action this year.

Newcomers to the squad whom Coach is hoping will deliver are infielders, Charlie Locke and Jack Spencer; and Freddie Kalencki who is an outfielder. Of the batterymen, Carl Leinhausen, who performed so brilliantly with the Legion outfit last year, and southpaw, Vance Betz both of whom are new to the team this year will probably see much action when the campaign gets under way. Sam Bragg appears to have clinched the position of understudy VanZant.

Approximately 25 youthful candidates reported for a workout in the gymnasium at the initial battery practice on March 10. These were, however, cut to six pitchers and a quartet of receivers after holding their first outdoor practice just before the full squad reported.

The battery squad was hit hard this year with only Gallagher, Grimes and VanZant the only left overs from last year. The brother team of Johnny and Stanley Dick are both out this year, the former having graduated while the latter has decided to try out for an infield berth. Others who have vacated the hurling squad are Joe Conti, who left school and Shorty Phillips who has failed to appear for practice as yet. Another who was counted on to fill an open spot on the squad was Punk Zefferi but he, too, has not appeared at any practice sessions as yet. Of the second string catchers from last year's team, Jack Ritter graduated and both Rousin and Orzeli were ineligible this year. Gallagher won 6 of 7 games last year while Grimes pitched in four or five contests. VanZant played in every game.

Newcomers who hope to clinch a starting berth on the firing line are southpaws Vance Betts, and Bob Petrick; right handers Carl Leinhausen and Bud Tunnis. Understudies of VanZant who may see some service are Sam Bragg, leading candidate to supplement the ace backstopper and both Kohler and Ludwick.

The biggest hole in the team was left in the infield where the entire inner garden needs reinforcements. But here most of the prospects have some experience, most of whom saw action last year. Those who will be counted upon to fill the infield vacancies are Charlie Locke at the initial sack, Jack Spencer at the keystone bag, and either Charlie Hughes or Wilbur VanLenten at the hot corner. The shortstop position is as yet undecided.

First base was left open when Charlie Hughes, regular guardian of the sack last season, decided to take up his chores at the hot corner this season. Therefore, Locke stepped in to fill this hole. He was Hughes substitute last year, and is counted upon to make good this year. He may be a valuable man in the batting line-up as he is a left hand swatter. He will have Pedrick to supplant him if needed.

At second base, the spot left by Johnny Stallone through graduation, will in all probability be taken care of by the youthful aspirant, Jack Spencer, who has had some experience from battles of other campaigns. However, Marino and Erny may step in now and then.

The shortstop position, vacated by Johnny Dick, who graduated, is still doubtful as to who will win the job. Johnny Dick also pitched when not doing duty at the shortfield. Hopetuls to capture the spot are Buddy Collier, and Hardy Johnson, all of whom do a good job at handling grounders, but the one who shows up best at the plate will no doubt cover this territory when the season gets under way. However, should Stanley Dick report for a tryout, he will probably fill the big shoes of his brother, Johnny.

At third, a real dog fight between Charlie Hughes, former guardian of the initial sack, and Wilbur VanLenten, a reserve last year, battle it out for the spot formerly held down by Dom "Sags" Sagolla. Again it will be a matter of who can clout the old apple to the best advantage of the team that will decide who shall fill this position as both are good fielders.

In the outfield, Harry Bauroth, clouting centerfielder, is the only one absolutely sure of winning his job back again this year. His all around play and ability at the plate give him a big advantage over other rivals. He is also capable of filling in at shortfield if needed as he did last year. As before mentioned much of the team's success this year depends upon Harry who is expected to deliver.

At the same time the other two positions in the outer garden seem certain to go to Pete DeLuca and Freddie Kalencki, although Weaser McCahan will push both these candidates to the limit for the job. DeLuca covered the sunfield much of last campaign and to date appears to have the spot clinched again this season. Kalencki, on the other hand, is a newcomer to the squad, but has shown so much promise that he is virtually sure of filling the position in left field vacated by Tom Profy. He will probably win the job because of his ability at the plate an advantage over the weak hitting McCahan. Other outfielders who hope to see action are Krammis, the only other flychaser from last year's squad, and Reader, McIlvaine, and LaPolla. The latter, like Kalencki have had experience with the Junior Legion nine, giving them an extra advantage over other rivals.

The complete squad this year is made up of the following:

Pitchers: Gallagher, Grimes, Petrick, Leinhausen, Betts, Tunnis.

Catchers: VanZant, Bragg, Ludwick, Kohler.

Infielders: Locke, Pedrick, Spencer, Erny, Marino, Collier, Carter, Johnson, Hughes, VanLenten.

Outfielders: Kalencki, LaPolla, Bauroth, Krammis, Reader, DeLuca, McCahan, McIlvaine.

The schedule to date is as follows:

What Big Bats You Boys Have!

These bats look big enough to produce plenty of hits for the slugging Di Maggio brothers, Vince (left), and Joe. Vince is just coming up with the Boston Bees and Joe has signed for his second year with the Yanks. They of used bats literally at St. Petersburg, Fla., when the Bees and Yankees went to it in a Spring practice game.

TROUT SEASON OPENS IN APRIL; STOCK STREAMS

HARRISBURG, Mar. 29.—With approach of April 15, opening day for trout fishing in Pennsylvania, thousands of enthusiastic disciples of Izaak Walton are checking over tackle and preparing for what they believe will be a fine trout season.

In preparation for the opening, the Fish Commission's fleet of 44 trucks are carrying from the hatcheries one of the finest crops of brook trout, brown trout, and rainbow trout to be produced in recent years. Interested sportsmen, meeting the trucks, are assisting in the stocking of the fish.

Included in the list of finest trout streams in the State, are many of the mountain and meadow waters in northeastern counties. Pike, Monroe, Wayne and Bradford "Heavy water" streams in Pike County include the Lackawaxen River, which last year yielded the largest brown trout reported, Pig Bushkill Creek, Wallenpaupack Creek, and the West Branch of Wallenpaupack Creek. Among other popular streams in the county are Indian Ladder Creek, Dwarfkill Creek, Shohola Creek, Little Bushkill Creek, and Raymondskill Creek.

Monroe County offers many picturesque mountain streams for the trout fisherman. The Aquashicola, Buckwa Creek, Big Bushkill, Cherry Creek, Dotter Creek, Forest Hill Creek, Lake Creek, Kettle Creek, Pohopoco Creek and McMichaels Creek are among those stocked each year with brook trout above legal six inch size. Legal size brown trout are stocked in Broadheads Creek, Middle Branch Broadheads Creek, Lehigh River, Paradise Creek, Pocono Creek, Pohopoco Creek and Sambo Creek, while fighting rainbow trout over legal size are planted in Broadheads Creek, Lehigh River and Snow Hill Dam.

In Wayne County's hill country are found some of the most beautiful and outstanding trout waters in Pennsylvania. Just to name a few of these waters, stocked annually with legal size trout, the list includes Babbittville Creek, Balls Creek, Brink Brook, Little Equinunk Creek, Crooked Creek, Big Branch of Dyberry Creek, West Branch Lackawaxen River, Middle Creek, Dyberry Creek, Butternut Creek and Wallenpaupack Creek.

Bradford County's trout streams have the distinction of being stocked exclusively with Pennsylvania's native charr, the brook trout. Dagget Creek, Millstone Creek, Schroder Creek, Seeley Creek, South Creek and Sugar Run comprise the list. In Susquehanna County are Butler Creek, Gaylord Creek, Harding Creek, East Branch Lackawaxen Creek, West Branch Lackawaxen Creek, Mitchell Creek and Nine Partners Creek, all brook trout waters.

ST. LOUIS READY TO FIGHT FOR THE FLAG

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Mar. 29.—(INS)—Beaten off in the National League pennant fight during the past two seasons, the St. Louis gashouse gang will be in the 1937 campaign with another challenge to the champion New York Giants, the Chicago Cubs and the rest, and is about due to come through this time.

Critical observers agree that the Cardinals may win the championship and are positive cinches to no worse than third in a close and very tough race. To all of this, Frankie Frisch, burdened with the task of managing the gang and ever the ultra-conservative, answered today:

"You'll see the same old spirit of the gashouse gang in a 154-game fight—and our real strength is in the pitching staff."

While that was saying virtually nothing, Frisch's reticence in the face of enthusiasm expressed by others, can be traced to the fact that at the moment he is perplexed by several major problems.

Whether or not Stuart Martin has regained his health and will be able to hold down second base all year remains to be answered—and the answer will be important. Also, Frisch still is wondering whether Don Gutteridge can play third base in the big league, Mickey Owen can catch big league pitching and Terry Moore can lift his 264 batting average of 1936 to some figure nearer—and preferably above—300.

The catching staff may yet lead to Frisch's biggest difficulties because it includes only one member with a big league experience. He is Brusie Ogradowski, and he's not too hot at that. It may be that Owen will come through and fill the gap left by the sale of Virgil Davis to the Reds. He is a two-fisted 19-year-old with plenty of spark and fire, but lacking in experience and revealing no signs of hitting greatness.

The third member of the backstop-ping corps is Paul Chervinko, like Owen, a product of the Columbus club.

St. Ann's Church Here To Hold Annual Procession

mediately after the celebration of the mass. Bands from Philadelphia will have prominent places in the line of march.

In the procession will be members of the parish, pupils of St. Ann's parochial school, and members of the Sodality. The statue of Our Lady of Grace will be carried from the church in the procession. There will also be borne aloft the banners of the Sodality and the school.

The route of the procession will be from the church to Penn. Franklin, Wood, Brook, Washington, Wood, and Dorrance, to the edifice.

The school children will be garbed in white, and will carry flowers.

Two Bristol Boys Rescued From Drowning in River

Two Bristol boys, Dominick and Frank Cianti, 1232 Pine Grove street, were rescued from drowning in the Delaware River, Friday afternoon, while they were attempting to bring drift wood in a row boat to Bristol.

The two brothers, 17 and 18 years of age, respectively, had been catching logs floating in the channel between Burlington Island and the Burlington shore. A stiff wind was blowing and their boat capsized, throwing both into the water. The boys, fearing cramps, hung onto the side of their boat rather than attempt to swim to shore. They called for help and their cries were answered by Stanley and Anthony Stittick, Burlington, who were also on the river in a boat.

The Stittick boys rowed hurriedly to the overturned craft and with the Bristol boys clinging to the side of their boat, rowed them to shore, where they were landed at the wharf of the U. S. Cast Iron Pipe Foundry Company.
